Summary

How do you develop great websites that your costumers will love? I've had many projects in my career where I've been tasked to create a website with this goal on mind. In every case it has come down to creativity and experience.

As a developer I really like what I do and always want to keep going forward and becoming better.Right now I am a Front-End Developer because I only know HTML/CSS/JAVASCRIPT but I will continue to learn other programming languages as well because I really love doing so.

Here is my github account aswell,where you can see all of my projects there.
